What's New In AutoCAD?

In the Markup Assist area, you can change the appearance of drawing objects and components using your designs' CNC patterns. Once you've designed a part and imported it into a drawing, you can update the appearance of that part or a component using your CNC pattern. Enhanced Dynamic Input Monitoring: AutoCAD's new cursorbased input monitoring features include the ability to add multiple conditions to your input monitoring, and a new text auto-completion that finds the text you're entering and adds it to the text box. (video: 4:52 min.) Object Snap Improvements: Gain greater precision by more quickly selecting objects. Use the new Snap object option to easily select parts by using two or more points. You can customize the snap object options for each object type in the Part Selector. You can also change the part order while using part selection. New Spline Annotation Tool: Use spline annotations to show objects in context to their parts. Use the spline points, x and y coordinates, and rotation to specify the angle and distance between objects. In addition, you can draw in the Object Snap mode and the annotation is automatically positioned for you. Sketch Command Improvements: The Sketch command provides an intuitive way to view, move, and rotate your sketch using a modern, human-friendly, command-based interface. (video: 5:32 min.) Smart-Paste Improvements: Paste images directly into a drawing without having to open the image first. Use the Select & Copy command to copy an image to the Clipboard. Select an image, press Ctrl+V (PC)/Command+V (Mac), and then select a destination to place the image. (video: 1:12 min.) More "Settings" Windows: Provide the ability to set your preferences in fewer windows, saving you time when accessing AutoCAD features. In the New Views category, for example, you'll be able to set the view or view layout by choosing a new menu. (video: 1:03 min.) Open Clipboard with Current Context Command: The Open Clipboard With Current Context command automatically copies the drawing currently open in the application, not just the active drawing. (video: 2:11 min.) Animation Commands: Add animation functionality to
