No matter how you do it, there's one thing in common for most individuals on the planet: They're looking for some fast ways to download apps. While every alternative requires you to tap an icon, download files, or open a browser, some just require you to type in a URL. One such type of app downloader is NoDock, a program that provides a free and simple way to download apps from any web browser. While it doesn't allow you to download everything (like Cydia Substrate or RedSn0w), the basic functionality is fairly straightforward and can be quite helpful for those who don't have a PC or don't have a jailbroken iOS device. Note: If you're unfamiliar with the jailbreak process, check out the jailbreak for iOS tutorial or check out the jailbreak for iOS FAQ. Install Nodock on iOS 8 Nodock requires you to first visit the following page on your iOS device. Once you've arrived, tap the link in the "See What's New" section and you'll be taken to the iOS App Store. Scroll down until you see NoDock and tap the link to install the app. The process is very simple and takes only a minute or two. Once the app is installed, you'll find that NoDock has already been preinstalled. It's a shame that NoDock isn't able to be installed from the App Store on iOS 8 devices, but at least it's able to be installed from Safari. Once installed, you'll be greeted by NoDock's simple, clear menu. As soon as you tap the "+" sign, you'll be prompted to select the URL you'd like to visit to begin the download process. The download itself is also very simple, and takes about a minute or two. Once you're done, you'll be brought back to the download screen and will be asked if you'd like to add the app to your Home Screen. Simply tap "Add" to have NoDock installed for future use. Simply clicking or pressing on a link in the article will open up the selected web page in the default browser that the operating system supports (for example, Safari for iOS or Chrome for Android). Don't worry, though, you can open websites in other browsers if you want or

However if you have more than three hard drives it makes the process too tedious. I've tried 3 different programs for this, but have found none to be as effective as this program. There is no need to pay for something that has unlimited features, it's an easy and wonderful program that I highly recommend. I used this for years, but it has a lot of restrictions on the number of drives it recognizes (3 currently, but can go up to unlimited). It worked fine with the three drives that I had connected at that time. I recently added a fourth drive and this stopped working. A big button in the window says "Drives and media remover" but then it says "No drives are recognized". So I just took the new drive out and restarted the computer.
