So, the output for the above list would be 2 for each string, as there are two letters. I tried using the following code: >>> for strng in myList: nl = 0 for i in range(len(strng)): if strng[i] == ' ': nl = nl + 1 break; This works well if mylist has no spaces. However, if there are spaces in the list it fails. How can I iterate through a string list and preserve the spaces when there are spaces in the list? A: Substitute your break statement with an if statement: for strng in myList: nl = 0 for i in range(len(strng)): if strng[i] != ' ':

Update (2018-11-25): WinRAR v5.52 (build date unknown) is confirmed to run the CCCP-3x codes. Rar 1.00.2 seems to support the CCCP-2x archive on Windows. Update (2017-08-18): It seems the Aio2X files are stored in a.rar format and not a.cab format. I got a hint from dougt_k that "Aio1X archives are just ISO files compressed with RAR". Update (2017-08-17): It turns out the current source releases support all the games required, including the original CCCP-2x game. Some others were discovered to work, too. A: CCCP-3x does not yet support.rar format files. I've found that rar x does not work and unpacking them does not work either. Below is information on this topic: WinRAR for Windows does not yet support the CCCP-3x (0.90) Format. Work arounds using the Windows Explorer Bar make it difficult to enter the path to the compressed file: [Window] > Help > Command Bar Check the Add Command Bar checkbox. Click on the arrow on the far right. Click on File Explorer on the left. Type %windir%\cccp More information: Previously a known bug for RAR was fixed in 1.x, but this does
