STAFF ACTIONS!! The monsters are hungry and they are on your turf... The locals are organized and armed... You're even on a time crunch, run time is running out fast and your time to act will soon be up!! In case you decide to take the all mighty Staff Actions, how many paths are left for you to escape? Spear Throwers, Ramming Udders, Huggin Venomous Ghouls... This pack comes with them all! Just don't make the mistake of getting stuck at "taking Staff Actions" About this Game in Brief: The town of Bickleburg was about to be overtaken by an in-filtrating gang of monsters that were moving in during the night. Luckily, the townspeople were awake and armed, and along with a strong group of mages, stopped the gang from doing that. Now, you are being asked to help the townspeople since your race, the Mystic Artisans, was also attacked and no staff actions were taken in time. * But with the town about to be overrun with monsters, you are clearly going to use the Staff Actions to escape! The monsters are up to their eyeballs in this town and you need to use your staff actions to save your race! * Some staff actions require to act more than once, so you need to think very quick! * Be careful, these actions can get dangerous * And, you are the only save now, so don't miss those important actions that might have saved your life

Iron Wall States Unit PackIron Wall States is a DLC pack containing new historical and rare units for Europa Universalis III. This new pack will add a number of unspent resources, new buildings, regional bonuses and new events for the players. Iron Wall States Unit Pack: Common Eastern UnitsThe Great Depression Era is a period of economic crisis in which worldwide, people suffer from breadline and hunger, whereas social and political conflicts have been steadily increasing for some decades. Civil wars between various states are widespread, nationalism rules the roost, and the great powers struggle for their influence. The Great Depression Era offers you three common eastern units in the same game pack, with historical rules, graphic, animations and sounds. They have complete stats, can be given regiments, and their families can also be recruited into your army! (Source: Wikipedia) Two state reinforcements:- Inhabitants of the provinces: Use population to do morale checks against the enemy. Use population in comparison with the enemy and neutral provinces. - Children born in a province: Defence For the first yearChildren born in a province gain double the morale bonus for a province. Do nothing after the first year. Feudalism Offset the resistancelf a province has experienced more than ten years of Feudalism, the base morale gain is halved. HistoryOf FeudalismIn the late medieval period, wars were fought on a smaller scale. Private armies of landowning knights and their retainers formed a standing army, which then could be divided up, loaned, or sold for mercenary services. This new system was used to reward and defend loyal followers. The forces of the landowner increased their military capacity. Once a loyal vassal became a fiefholder of his lord, he is obligated to serve, fight in, and raise money for the lord. His men must be in the lord's service; he and his retainers receive part of the yield from his land and will be mobilized to the lord's call. In return he receives a title and homage from the lord. History of Feudalism During the Early Modern Era, the use of the nobility in warfare becomes the norm. Noble estates now act as private military companies, or "hotbeds" of violence. Feudalism also spreads into the peasantry, and feudalism is now ingrained in the population. Military SecretariesThe Security

Jenkins School (Fond du Lac, Wisconsin) The Jenkins School is a historic school building at 1048 East 3rd Street in Fond du Lac, Wisconsin. Originally the Fond du Lac State Normal School, it was designated as a Historic Civil Engineering Landmark of the Professional Civil Engineers of Wisconsin on May 15, 1984. The building is the school where Wisconsin's first black graduate, Mary Ellen Jackson, received her teaching certificate in 1906. Description and history The Jenkins School is located in downtown Fond du Lac, on the east side of 3rd Street (the main east-west route through the city). It stands near the northern end of the campus of the University of Wisconsin-Fond du Lac, which lies to the east. The school, built in 1901, is an original two-story masonry structure, constructed in the American Victorian style, with emphasis on turreted ornamentation. It is covered by a hipped roof, and its main entrance is flanked by paired arched entranceways. The building underwent restoration in 2013. During the early 20th century, the campus of the normal school was located in the area now known as Downtown Fond du Lac. The first faculty meeting was held in this building, and the first building on the site was described as "a good modern frame building" by the Fond du Lac Daily Townsman on December 4, 1901. The building was dedicated on December 2, 1901

Q: How to manually set Connection Pool Initial Size in Hibernate for Oracle/PL/SQL? Is it possible to manually set the initial size of the connection pool in hibernate for Oracle/PL/SQL? In our case, when we have a connection leak, we need to manually size the pool to the number of connections we have available (based on the number of sessions we have active). To do this, we hardcode a value of 3000 into the properties file. Hibernate can then manage to create the connection pool with 3000 connections when we start the application the first time. Now, the problem is that this value is hardcoded. We like to use more realistic values than 3000, but Hibernate won't recognize them when we use `SetInitialSize()`. Hibernate is not aware of this setting and therefore increases the size of the connection pool gradually, based on the number of sessions (if it has not reached the limit yet). Is there any way that we can manually size the pool size to the number of sessions we have available? A: I was looking for the same thing. I think that there is no way to implement this. I have one possible workaround. Just create a main Class (for example named App) and load it into the server. For example, the main Class could create a DB Connection and stores the connection reference on a static hashmap field. Then, you have a main Class with just one method that is called by your hibernate initialization main : this method could open and close a connection with the hashmap field. When you start your app, the main Class will be called and it will open a connection, and since you're using hibernate, it will know how to close that connection with "hibernate" releases it. Hope that it's helps for you.

System Requirements For LET IT DIE -(Special)50 Death Metals-033:

RAM: 8 GB Install Size: 83 MB When I first started writing my last review, I was thinking about how I wanted to showcase the most visually stunning, addictive game I could find. While I'd say that Assassin's Creed III is really beautiful to look at, I don't think it can rival the incredible jaw dropping vistas of Far Cry 3. Even though the game isn't nearly as jaw dropping visually as Far Cry 3, it still sets a new standard for open world stealth and combat. The game has
