can prevent the development of postoperative cognitive dysfunction in elderly patients. A prospective, randomized, controlled clinical trial was conducted in elderly patients undergoing hip fracture repair. Postoperative cognitive dysfunction was assessed by Mini-Mental State Examination score at 24h and 3 months after surgery. One hundred patients were randomly assigned to two groups: the control (CON, n = 50) and the isoflurane (ISF, n = 50) groups. The mean age was 74 ± 7 years and the mean difference between pre- and postoperative Mini-Mental State Examination scores was -2.4 ± 3.1 in CON and -1.9 ± 4.4 in ISF ($P = 0.45$). The proportion of patients with cognitive decline at 3 months was 15% (CON) and 20% (ISF) ($P = 0.59$). Multivariable analysis showed that isoflurane-based general anesthesia was independently associated with a lower risk of cognitive decline at 3 months (OR 0.41, 95%CI 0.17-0.98, $P = 0.046$). Isoflurane-based general anesthesia can prevent the development of postoperative cognitive dysfunction in elderly patients.

February's whole week was full of various last minute summer shenanigans. Last minute. Unfortunately, as it seems, for she's about to return to the colder weather of Finland (if you're wondering why then... yay!) But before we say goodbye for the year to the sun/summer/hot and all the lovely occasions of it we decided to make some fun with our Freegal player. Who doesn't like a movie when it's cold and wintry in February? Just like we do.
