Black, homely and heartless, Ann Nelson doesn't dwell on her 50-year career as a train engineer. That's because of another reason she loves railroading: She enjoys rare opportunities to work with female engineering crews.

Nelson said she envied other women "a different kind of work, outside of raising a family. That made [her] meet more women. That's what spurred it."

Editor's note: This is the first story in a series of first-person essays on women engineering train conductors.

A modern puzzle adventure game with a classic story line, you are Fran, a new amnesiac. As an undercover detective, your job is to visit potential patients, identify their problems and help them recover their memories. But you must be careful, because once they've recalled their memories you must decide whether they should live or die. You play as Fran, an amnesiac detective who is living in a world both startlingly different and strangely familiar. Enter the minds of patients and use deduction to access their memories and piece together the clues to retrieve their precious memories. To the Mind: Between each flashback, there's a connecting sequence which reveals more and more of the patient's life. Through each, you must investigate and decide whether it's better to save them or throw them to the garbage. The story is simple but profound. Lunar Æter Æternon by Omegarot On their first full-length album "ÆTER ÆTERÆON" (2016) Omegarot project brings you mystical structures of sound where Greek mythology meets modern technology and ancient paganism. The music of Omegarot is a cerebral return to the sonic landscapes of the 80's alternative scene for those who, in the meantime, never grew old and big on eclectic, futuristic and futuristic-retro. Such a visual and auditive reflection is the result of two years of intense experiment and study. Many different methods were used to explore sound and timbre to the brink of abstract and hypnotic ideal, such as the incorporation of unusual instruments, samples and software synthesisers. With their mystagogy, rhythm and rhythm, psychedelic texture, trip and trance, Omegarot project brings you the magic of an extended journey. Discover it in ÆTERÆON and enjoy the journey! produced the finest tank army in history. Why some of the most influential leaders of the Third Reich could never understand the strategic importance of tanks and how American technological advances should be applied to German methods of warfare is explained in the appendix to this site A special thanks to Cosmicvate for her assistance in creating this site. One of the best place to visit for Military history is Charles DeGlopper's Tanks and Artillery here Our favorite place to visit for Military history is:America loves its Military and the stories behind the warriors. We have a great collection of books for one to read and be inspired. Here's a few that you should get: BOOKS Old West: War and Peace on the Missouri Frontier (do your deed in the middle of the Wild Indian Wars) Tanks: A Concise History of Amphibious Warfare (very comprehensive read for naval history) Comparable weapons of World War II: Aircraft versus Tank (not new, but an outstanding read about the shortcomings of the German battles and how to correct it) Books: Literature: Dune: A Frank Herbert Novel Rum and Romanism: An Informal History of the Catholic Church from 1789 to the Present With this book you get: The story of the change in the way people lived from 1790 to the early 20th Century as a result of the Industrial Revolution. This book is hard to pick up and put down. You wont feel tired if you borrow it from the library. Its a very well written, well organized, well written book. It is related to History, but it reads like a novel and you don't need to research anything to understand it. Check it out Short Fiction: Battle for the Planet of the Apes Off to Be the Great Hero: A History of Crowd Management, Crowd Pleasers and People Power The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, by Tom Robbins A Whiff of Chrysanthemums, by Patrick DeWitt POETRY: Animals, by Shel Silverstein Beware of the Dog, by Ogden Nash How Do I Become Clairvoyant? We get caught up in the wrong crowd and we don't stop to ask God for his help in our purpose because we are afraid of standing out. We don't break out of the crowd because of what it's like being outside the crowd. We are afraid of being different for fear of being alone. We are supposed to be set apart, but the problem is we've been protected in our little world that we've created for ourselves. Don't stay in that place. You can't create anything outside of that place. We need to be brought out of that little crowded space where we think we're supposed to be. God wants us to be more than a part of the crowd. God wants us to be in the crowd, doing more than looking in and listening. God wants us out and He's calling us out. It's time that we break out of the crowd.
