Photoshop is continually updated, so new capabilities, features, and plugins continually appear in the program. Make sure that you keep up with the latest version because new features often enhance capabilities and Photoshop's overall performance. Adobe Lightroom is a sophisticated image-manipulation program that uses the same underlying software as Photoshop. The main difference is that Lightroom is geared more toward organizing, editing, and displaying images in a nonlinear format. Watch the following videos to get an idea of the range of image-processing software available: * www.totalsem.com/products/photoshop_tutorials * www.youtube.com/watch?v=j-DXRbX4KhU * www.youtube.com/watch?v=zNILHjRw4BQ Photoshop and Lightroom are similar image-editing applications that are useful and effective for organizing, editing, and displaying images. This book, however, looks at Photoshop; as such, all related terms specific to Lightroom will be marked as such. ## Basic Photoshop Fundamentals Photoshop is an extremely powerful tool to have in the arsenal of any designer because it is able to perform so many tasks. It can do such basic tasks as crop, rotate, and resize as well as enhance and improve images. When editing images, Photoshop enables you to manipulate different elements within images, such as increase or decrease the amount of color, change the shadows or highlights, or alter the overall color balance of a photograph. Before you begin working with Photoshop, it's important to understand the basics and how Photoshop works. To get started, this section explains how to open an image and what all the various tools available in the program do and how to control the behavior of those tools.

The Channels Panel allows you to view images and their underlying pixels in a variety of ways. This is useful for manipulating or enhancing specific image areas. The Eraser allows you to remove unwanted parts of an image. This is useful for adjusting or replacing specific image areas. The Fade is a fast, easy way to remove or reduce the light or dark edges around an object. It's also a handy tool for creating soft edges, such as those around photo and video clips. The Gradient tool creates gradients. These can be used for a variety of effects, including painting with different colors, creating lighting effects and creating true color gradients for fake watermarks. The Pen tool allows you to draw and edit lines, shapes and text. It's a really powerful tool and can be used for creating a variety of effects including photo retouching, text and shape overlays, and pen animations. The Path Selection tool lets you create more complex shapes, including grids, which can be used for retouching and creating complex graphics and animations. The Pencil tool is similar to the Pen tool, but it is used for drawing and painting. The Paint Bucket is one of the easiest ways to remove unwanted parts of an image. It's similar to the Eraser tool and it works much the same way, but instead of simply erasing, the Paint Bucket applies a solid color to the pixels where you click or click and drag. The Rectangular Marquee tool allows you to select and remove areas of an image. A common use is for creating a simple photo frame. The Smudge tool is useful for "smearing" or softening the edge of an image, and it's a powerful tool for retouching or compositing images. The Magic Wand is a great tool for selecting image parts. It allows you to select areas of similar colors and blend them into one area. It's useful for making that smaller element stand out in an image. The Magic Wand also works well for selecting certain areas, including human faces and hair. The Magic Eraser is used to lighten or darken specific areas of an image. This can be used to erase unwanted elements, such as stray pixels, parts of the background and unwanted objects. The Paint Bucket tool can be used to select or deselect areas,

Q: Instantiation of another object is deallocated if I call a function I have the following problem: I have a class called NTfViewController which has 3 view's (which in this case are not of type UIView, rather I have given them their own class "UIView" to avoid name clashes, if it makes a difference), something like this: class NTfViewController: UIViewController{ var sView: UIView? var mView: UIView? var mViewController: AVPlayerController? var scene1: NTfScene? var scene2: NTfScene? } I get the AVPlayerController from the UIViewController in the function override func viewDidLoad() { super.viewDidLoad() // Do any additional setup after loading the view, typically from a nib. // self.view = view var screenX: CGFloat = 50 var screenY: CGFloat = 50 var myPlayer : AVPlayer? = AVPlayer() var avPlayerLayer : AVPlayerLayer? = AVPlayerLayer() avPlayerLayer?.frame = view.frame avPlayerLayer?.videoGravity = AVLayerVideoGravity.resizeAspect avPlayerLayer?.player = myPlayer avPlayerLayer?.position = CGPoint(x: screenX, y: screenY) avPlayerLayer?.hasPriority = true view.layer.addSublayer(avPlayerLayer!) myPlayer?.play() } my function that does the initialization of the AVPlayerController and sets its size to 800x600 which is the screen size of the simulator: func createPlayer() { var gPlayer : AVPlayer? = nil gPlayer = AVPlayer() gPlayer?.moviePlayerController?.view.frame = CGRect(x: 0, y: 0, width: 800, height: 600) gPlayer?.moviePlayerController?.view.
