You are in charge of a team of players. Those players must be recruited, coached, and properly managed. Every eSports team has a star player, some have a player who can be the best in his or her position, and others have a role player. You must find the player that will help you win. You have limited funds, so you can only sign a certain number of players. Depending on your position, some players are worth more than others. You can watch your players play their games in real-time. Analyze your players and make the best decisions. Decide if your player needs to be traded to another team, or stay with your current team. They could be the best player in the world, but if you're in the wrong position, they may never shine. This is all up to you. You have three main goals: Win the league - Each league you win will earn you a reward, which will increase your profile and the skill cap. You can use your profile to more easily fill in slots when drafting or using players for recruitment. Win the current game - Each game is a tie, and the winning team can customize their champion lineup. This can sometimes help you if you have a bad matchup in a tournament or a championship. Win every game in the championship - You can make it far in the championship if you win the league, and you can have a much easier time in the playoffs if you win the current game. In the championship, you can also sign a free agent. Now, I know what you're thinking - this seems like a lot of game. You need to read through all of that text above to get an idea of what the game is about. My main goal is to get you to take the time to read through a little bit, and to make the game easier to understand and get into, so that you'll want to play sooner.
