Acoustic neuroma in the canal of the facial nerve: are intrameatal tumors cured? The surgical approach and pathology of acoustic neuroma in the internal auditory canal have been controversial, due to the risk of injury to the facial nerve. We present two patients with intrameatal acoustic neuroma treated with a minimally invasive transcanal approach and subtotal resection of tumor, in which the facial nerve was uncovered within the first level facial canal. The primary tumor and any recurrences were removed. In the patient who presented more than 20 years after the initial onset of symptoms, the surgical approach was modified to achieve tumor debulking without facial nerve damage. With follow-up at 3 and 8 years, the patients were well without evidence of disease.

Q: Matplotlib: how to plot a point somewhere in one y axis I want to plot a point somewhere in one axis of a plot. I did like this: `ax = plt.subplot(211) plt.plot(data, color='red', linestyle='-', alpha=0.5) ax.annotate("", xy=(135,45), xytext=(90, 40), arrowprops={'facecolor':'red'})`

I know I should use 'doInBackground' to populate ListView. But the problem is, the web service is so slow that It is not updating till the whole process ends. What I would like to do is, to start counting number of times service is called, or at least the progress of the operation. Any suggestion would be great! A: You should probably have two calls back to your UI thread. One to populate the listview and one to populate the progress bar. The async task should be the call to the web service and in the doInBackground you should be able to
